N.Y. Mayor Vows To End Walkout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiations disintegrated today in New York's subway and bus strike which Mayor John V. Lindsay angrily declared was now a battle between the people and "forces bent on laying siege to the city."

He vowed to end the walkout and "to serve the people and to free them from the hold the collection of power brokers have had over our city."

With the strike's cost in wage and business losses now above $1 billion, the city's economy was reported in the worst straits since the days of the depression of the 1930s. And the national economy felt repercussions.

Somehow the citizenry bounced back. After 11 days without the public transportation that normally carries six million passengers a day, New York was getting used to walking and adjusted to four-hour delays in traffic that sometimes didn't budge a block an hour.

Overloaded Isle
Manhattan Island, 31.2 square miles, Monday absorbed 870,000 automobiles — more than those registered in any of 20 states — and expected, somehow, to admit even more today.

But everyone realized that a calamity could easily occur. A fire engine, luckily not responding to an emergency alarm, was stuck helplessly in one block for 15 minutes during Monday's evening rush hour until firemen finally walked ahead of it and cleared a path.

Hoping to end the strike by the Transport Workers Union

(TWU) against the Transit Authority (TA) today, Lindsay went on television to propose an immediate return to work — with or without a contract.

He met rebuff within hours.

Three Courses Open
Lindsay called for one or more of three courses of — A settlement based on a proposal by the strike's three mediators;

— Appointment of three new fact-finders who would propose a settlement while the 36,000 strikers worked;

— Or any alternative to these steps, including binding or non-binding arbitration. Under arbitration, both sides agree in advance to accept the proposals of an outside group.

The Republican mayor, who in 11 days in office has coped with little else but the transit crisis, coupled his proposals with a denunciation of the strike leaders.

"A handful of men consigned a city of eight million people to paralysis," he said. "Forces bent on laying siege to the city seemed to move forward as if following a pre-arranged script."

Lindsay spoke after a day of no negotiations. None followed his speech.

with the appearance of Dr. J. Malcolm Edwards of Jonesboro and perhaps one or two other witnesses from that state.

There was an outside chance that the committee's investigation of the Klan would move on to Mississippi before the day was over.

Imperial wizard Robert M. Shelton Jr., and the grand dragons of Virginia, Georgia and North and South Carolina had refused to produce Klan records, claiming the Constitution's 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

Committee members disagreed, contending that the 5th Amendment did not cover official records held by an official of an organization. They voted unanimously to recommend that the leaders — plus three other national officers — be cited for contempt of Congress.

If the recommendations are approved by the House — and they are certain to be — and the men are convicted in court, they could be sent to jail for one year and fined $1,000.

Strike Is Flop In Santo Domingo But May Spread
SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The Communist-led "general strike" here Monday appeared to be a general flop, but observers said there was a possibility it might spread today.

The strike was effective in some factories and government offices in Santo Domingo and in three of the nation's sugar mills. Reports from the provinces indicated little heed was paid to the strike call elsewhere.

The strike led to violence in the rebel-infested slums of Santo Domingo, including an anti-government riot early Monday. U.S. paratroopers summoned to disperse the mob killed one rioter and wounded another.

The strike was called to protest a government order exiling both loyal military leaders and rebel deserters as a consequence of the Dec. 13 clash between army and rebel leaders in Santiago.

Strikes At Peak
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strikes hit a 10-year peak in 1965 but working time lost because of the walkouts remained a "notably low level" for the post war period, the Labor Department announced today.

The department reported that 3,880 strikes occurred during the year involving 1,480,000 workers and accounting for 23.1 million man-days of idleness, which matched the 1964 figure.

Computers Speed Up Registration At Michigan U.

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Computers soon will eliminate the long registration lines at the start of each school term, the University of Michigan said today.

Edward G. Groesbeck, registrar, said computers and the mail will replace the three-day registration period, relieve faculty members from registration work and eliminate a "headache for students, faculty and administrators."

Groesbeck said the university launched the change by having 14,793 winter term students pick their courses in advance. It worked, and computers will make it easier, he said.

"Eventually, all student record data would be maintained on computer tape, greatly simplifying detail work during registration," he said. "Mail assessment of fees would eliminate all the work now done in the... gymnasium area during registration."

Congress Gets Top Reports On Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress marked the second day of its 1966 session today with high-level briefings on the Viet Nam war and the first of its huddles on political housekeeping.

No business was scheduled in either House until after President Johnson delivers his State-of-the-Union message at joint session Wednesday night.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was called today to give the House Foreign Affairs Committee a session-opening briefing on world problems, with special emphasis on Viet Nam.

On the Senate side, a six-man special subcommittee was being briefed on the same grim outlook by Central Intelligence Agency Director William F. Mohr and his aides.

The importance of Rusk's report was heightened when it was learned that there has been direct contact between the United States and North Viet Nam in the administration's current peace offensive.

But it was shadowed by news of the sudden death of Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri in Tashkent.

Awaiting the President's message and his expected review of the Viet Nam problems, Senate Democrats scheduled a party conference this morning to affirm the selection of a new sergeant-at-arms and plan for the year. Joseph C. Dyke, who retired from the $27,500 a year post because of poor health, was slated to be succeeded by his deputy, Robert G. Dunphy, 45.

Rio de Janeiro Crippled After Day-Long Storm
RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — A torrential daylong summer rain storm crippled this Brazilian city of three and a half million today. An estimated 145 persons were dead, more than 1,000 others injured and many thousands homeless.

State Gov. Francisco Negrão da Lima declared a state of public emergency and called in army, navy and air force units to aid in rescue work.

The storm, which dumped more than 10 inches of rain on the city in 18 hours, knocked out light, gas and telephone service in many parts of the city.

In the Pavaozinho slum, 19 persons died when shanties collapsed and slid down a hillside. In the famed Copacabana Beach area, five bodies were recovered after 10 houses were swept downhill.

SPRINGVILLE, Utah (UPI) — Mrs. Jean Wightman's breakfast cost $100 Monday. The loud "snap, crackle and pop" she heard wasn't just from cereal.

Her daughter, Mrs. Linda Bartholomew, had placed the lenses in a bowl in the cupboard for safekeeping.

Note Delivered By Diplomat One Week Ago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A peace bid delivered at a face-to-face meeting between diplomats from the United States and North Viet Nam has so far failed to spark any official reply from the Communists, administration sources said today.

It was disclosed Monday night the United States sent a note to Hanoi more than a week ago clarifying its position on negotiations on the war in Viet Nam and seeking to persuade the Communists to go to the conference table.

Administration officials said the U.S. communication was handed to a North Vietnamese official by an American diplomat at one of the capitals in which the two countries both have representatives.

The message sent to Hanoi apparently was the only such "direct" contact that has been made between the two governments.

Hanoi's failure to answer it further dimmed hopes for turning back the tide of war in Southeast Asia and moving closer to the conference table.

Disclosure of the meeting between U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats followed a general statement by White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers it was a "safe deduction" the United States had been in direct contact with Hanoi during the course of the "peace offensive" launched by President Johnson last Dec. 20.

No Possibility Ignored
Several factors apparently motivated the administration's decision to disclose its direct approach to Hanoi. Among these were:

— President Johnson's desire to bring the public and Congress up to date on his peace efforts prior to delivering his State of the Union address Wednesday night.

— The assertion by assistant professor Staughton Lynd of Yale University that he was told by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong that the U.S. government had made no contact with his country and this was "quite disturbing."

Moyers said Lynd, who returned Sunday from an unauthorized trip to Hanoi, was "incompletely informed."

The desire to convince U.S. allies, neutralists and European Communists that the President was ignoring no possibility in his effort to find a peaceful solution in Viet Nam.

Slaying Blamed On Nightriders
HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI) — President Johnson Monday asked that the full resources of the Justice Department be thrown into the investigation of the nightrider firebombing slaying of a prominent Negro merchant and civil rights leader.

The death of Vernon Dahmer, 58, late Monday from fatal burns set off a demonstration by 300 angry Negroes who marched on the courthouse and demanded action against his attackers.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said the President "expressed to me his deep concern over the tragedy," and asked the full resources of the Justice Department be employed in the investigation.

Although so badly burned that he died several hours later from the fire touched off by a volley of "Molotov cocktails," Dahmer managed to fire a shotgun blast that struck his attackers' car.

The automobile was recovered after three miles away with its tires and rear end shot up. It remained a prime clue for scores of FBI and state agents investigating the attack. The car's owner reported it stolen.

Prime Minister Of India Dies On Peace Mission

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India's saddened millions today received the body of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, man of the people whose final hours were spent in pursuit of peace for a nation which has seen little but hardship and war.

A crowd estimated at 30,000 thronged New Delhi Airport for the arrival of a Soviet Il-18 propjet plane which returned Shastri's body from Tashkent, U.S.S.R., where he succumbed earlier today of a heart attack.

Receiving the body of the 61-year-old Prime Minister were Indian President Dr. S. Radhakrishnan and Shastri's eldest son, Hari Krishnan. It was placed on an open gun carriage flanked by six generals as the vast crowd, many weeping and others shouting "Long live Shastri," pressed forward for final glimpse of the diminutive statesman.

Pact Signed
The late afternoon sun cast sharp shadows across the airport as the crowd strained to catch a glimpse of the tiny figure with its familiar Gandhi-style white hat.

Shastri's face appeared serene in death, reflecting the diplomatic triumph of Tashkent, where he signed a historic peace pact with Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan just 12 hours before he was stricken.

The accord stipulated India and Pakistan would renounce the use of military force to resolve their decades-old border dispute over Kashmir which twice erupted into undeclared war.

The funeral procession moved slowly along a seven-mile route to Shastri's residence at 10 Janpath, where the body was to lie in state overnight.

Cremation At River
It will be cremated in Hindu rites Wednesday near Shanti Vana — the Woodland of Peace on the banks of the Jumna River. It was here that Shastri's predecessor — Jawaharlal Nehru — was cremated 18 months ago before Shastri was sworn in to succeed him.

En route to New Delhi by jet airliner for the funeral were ranking government officials from throughout the world, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and former U.S. Ambassadors to India John Kenneth Galbraith and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. They are the official representatives of President Johnson.

Kosygin Present
Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who arranged the historic Tashkent summit between Shastri and Ayub Khan, led the Russian delegation which traveled aboard a separate plane from Soviet Asia, whose nation long has been involved in named officially to succeed Shastri later this week when bloody conflict with India since both were granted independence from Britain in 1947, named a three-man delegation to represent him in New Delhi.

He praised Shastri as a man of "sincerity and dedication" and said, "We have laid a promising beginning in Tashkent."

Two days of public mourning were decreed and black-bordered newspapers reported details of Shastri's death alongside reports of his major accomplishments at Tashkent.

Shastri, who had been in frail health since becoming leader of the world's second most populous nation on June 9, 1964, had suffered two previous heart attacks during those years.

Crew Abandons Sinking Spanish Vessel In Gale

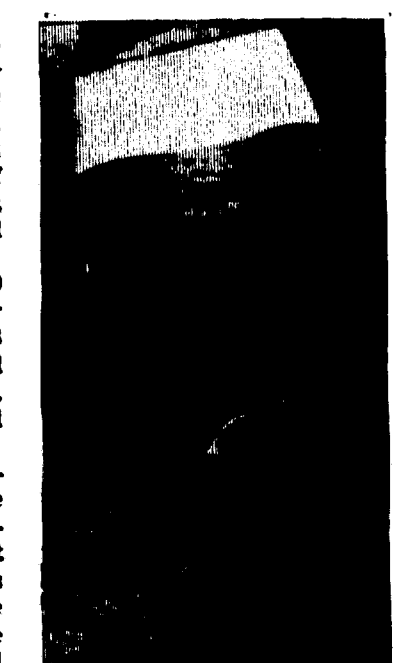

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard, encouraged by the survival of four men who spent a harrowing night bobbing in a raft in stormy seas, today pressed a search for other crewmen who abandoned a sinking Spanish freighter in North Atlantic gale.

The four survivors told rescuers at least 23 other crew members left the crippled Monte Palomares in a lifeboat and another raft as winds up to 60 knots and waves 35 feet high crashed against the listing ship.

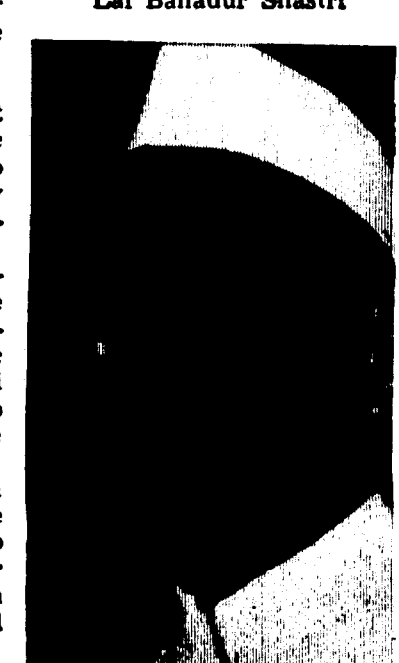

The Coast Guard said the radio report from the rescue ship Steel Maker did not account for the total number aboard the Monte Palomares, but the ship's owners said it normally had a crew of 38.

The four men apparently suffered no serious effects during their 12-hour ordeal in the life raft.

The Coast Guard said its preliminary search efforts showed no sign of other DETROIT (UPI) — Former Garden City contractor Lester C. Ellerhorst faced 4½ to 5 years in prison today for conspiring to extort money from Detroit attorney Arthur Bichan and murder him.

Ellerhorst, 61, and two hired accomplices were sentenced to similar prison terms Monday by Recorder's Judge Vincent J. Brennan. Ellerhorst's attorney said he would appeal the conviction.

Edward Szeles, 34, an ex-convict, and James Clark, 46, an escapee from a Florida prison farm, were convicted last month of joining Ellerhorst in the murder-conspiracy plot after they were arrested May 22 in front of Bichan's home.

The trio was convicted of conspiring against Bichan, state Rep. James T. Tierney, and Garden City Municipal Judge Russell Swarthout.

Ellerhorst, who has been in and out of jails and mental institutions for the past eight years, was convicted of shooting Tierney five times in 1957 over a dispute on the construction of a Garden City police station. Tierney was mayor of the Detroit suburb at the time.

The builder was convicted of masterminding the plot last May to recover money he claimed was still owed him for the police station.

Hiker, 76, Given Bus Ticket To Stevens Point
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Charles E. Borton, 76, headed on his way to Stevens Point Monday, riding in high fashion on a bus after walking most of the 300 miles here from Detroit.

Borton, who said he was a potato grader, was arrested by Milwaukee police early Monday, but the district attorney's office, after hearing his story, refused to charge him with vagrancy.

Instead, Roger Hogan, an unsalaried court aide, reached into his pocket and bought Borton a $5.60 bus ticket to Stevens Point.

Borton told authorities he had been staying with his daughter in Detroit, but had a quarrel with her the day after Christmas and decided to leave.

Wearing long underwear, a plaid shirt, boot overalls, a denim jacket, suit coat, felt hat, and work shoes, he set out on foot for Stevens Point.

The Spanish freighter was one of three ships left crippled in the area during a fierce gale which began to subside during the night. The Coast Guard said one of the others was also in danger of sinking, but a cutter was rendering assistance along side.

The Coast Guard said the 30 crewmen of the Greek freighter Lampis, its hull battered by the storm, were expected to abandon ship, after daybreak today and board the awaiting cutter Androscoggin.

The Monte Palomares was carrying grain from Norfolk, Va., to Spain when its cargo shifted under the strain of winds and high seas. It tossed the 5,973-ton vessel on its side, heeling at an angle of 50 degrees.

Dairymen Get Emergency Aid

Agriculture Secretary Freeman announces that 21 Michigan counties, including 13 in the Upper Peninsula, have been authorized to buy federal surplus feed grain at reduced prices under a federal disaster area program.

Unusually wet conditions last summer made it impossible to harvest normal hay or grain crops in most of the Upper Peninsula and dairy farmers suffered a shortage of feed crops for their herds. They stressed their plight in a recent Department of Agriculture hearing in Green Bay, Wis., which resulted in a USDA suspension of a 20 cent a hundredweight decrease in milk prices through the winter, provided for in the U.P. Milk Marketing Order.

Under the emergency feed program, farmers will be able to buy surplus grains as much as 35 cents a bushel under market prices by applying at their local ASCS offices.

Counties eligible for the aid in the U.P. are Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Mackinac, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft.

Highway Awards Aired In Court, Objections Filed

By DAVE ANDREWS

Awards totaling $16,510 for damages resulting to 19 property owners from Michigan State Highway Dept. condemnation of property along M-35 north of Gladstone were presented to Judge Bernard H. Davidson for confirmation in Delta County Circuit Court Monday.

Objections were filed by Attorney Charles Santini of Ironwood on behalf of 13 property owners.

The awards were made by a court-appointed panel of three commissioners after hearing during the October term of Circuit Court.

Attorney Objects
Damages sought by the 19 property owners totaled $59,617.

Santini said he objected to the awards on the grounds that they "were not reasonable and fair and proper compensation" to his clients.

"In one case the amount of the award was less than the state's original offer," he said.

All of the awards presented for confirmation by Don Goulais assistant state attorney general were within the range of testimony of witnesses at the hearings. Top award was $4,000. Low was $50.

Goulais termed the awards "very favorable to the state." Judge Davidson said he would "reserve" decision on the awards until he reviewed his notes on the cases. He pointed out, however, that the decision of the commissioners is usually final.

Hearing Postponed
In a second series of actions, involving highway department condemnations for U. S. 2 and 41 construction between Gladstone and Rapid River, Judge Davidson postponed hearing until the June term of court. He said he would appoint the panel of commissioners on or before March 1.

Santini, who represents several of nine parties contesting the highway department offer of compensation for their land, requested the postponement to allow the commissioners to view the land in normal conditions, without snow cover.

Appointment of the commissioners was originally scheduled for Monday afternoon, in conjunction with the confirmation of awards action on the M-35 project and nearly 50 people filled the courtroom.

Large Crowd
Awards confirmed without objection, with the property owners asking price and state's witness testimony in parentheses, were:

Clarence Cartwright, Rte. 1, Gladstone, $3,500 ($5,000 and $2,600);

Ingolf Ingebrigtsen, Rte. 1, Gladstone, $4,000 ($4,800 and $3,350);

George Goymerac, 1407 N. 18th St., Escanaba, $310 ($500 and $260);

Lavor Estates, et al, $50 ($50 and no testimony);

Awards objected to, with asking price and state's testimony in parentheses, were:

Interfaith Approach Used To Strengthen Family Living

Two ministers and their wives, two Catholic priests, and 66 couples of many faiths gathered recently at the little town of Gastra in Iron County to hear 12 talks on marriage enrichment.

For six consecutive Thursdays they traveled through ice and snow, and when it was over, they gathered around the speaker's desk and told him that "this is the finest thing that has ever happened to our marriage." Many of them commented, "We wish we could have heard these talks 10 years ago."

Yet none of these couples had heard anything startling or new. The speaker had talked about the basic components of all marriages: communications, sex, child rearing. His language was simple, and the examples he used were familiar to everyone who attended.

"These couples had experienced a new approach to the age-old challenge of building better people," said Urban Steinmetz of the Bureau. "We hear a good deal today about helping troubled families, but few people have been working to strengthen, preserve and deepen the love that exists in our good homes."

Enrichment of Family Life is the function of the Upper Peninsula Family Life Bureau. That nearly everyone recognizes the importance of this work can be seen in the interest that has greeted its program wherever it has been presented.

Years Of Preparation
The basic program of family life enrichment has been developing for years. It was originally built upon observation in interviews with over 1,000 couples representing every class and religion. Next its findings were checked against known authorities in the fields of sociology, psychology, social work, and religion.

Finally, the program underwent a three year testing and evaluation involving test presentations to more than 650 couples in small group sessions. Over 1,500 written questions were received and tabulated in this period. Reviews were held with each group, and the results tabulated and utilized in improving the program.

The program was originally started as a department of Catholic Social Service, but very early in its development it became evident that the basic components of sound marriage are common to all faiths, and couples of all religions were invited to the talks.

Catholic Bishop Thomas L. Noa strongly supported the family enrichment program from the start, recognizing that the strong family is the basic unit of all society. Finally, in May of 1965, he formally set up the U.P. Family Life Bureau, provided an adequate first year budget, and promised continuing support.

Serves All People
Bishop Noa made his purpose clear in establishing the agency: "I want this bureau to serve all people of the Upper Peninsula. The Family Life Bureau will be an independent corporation, with its own board of directors and its own budget. We hope that people of all faiths will join with us in this good work."

The original board of directors of the Family Life Bureau is composed of four couples, two Catholic and two Protestant. Lyle Plowman, of the Bay de Noc Community College faculty is its president. Rev. Ben Helmer, Episcopal pastor in Escanaba, and Father David LeLievre serve as clergy advisors to the board. Urban Steinmetz is executive director, and is responsible to the board for the program.

The first task of the board of directors was to evaluate the lecture series to make sure that its content was universal. The only problem encountered was in the area of family planning, and this problem was handled by simply recognizing that differences exist, and factually presenting both Catholic and Protestant alternatives.

Inter-Faith Approach

The board is presently engaged in formulating the constitution and a set of by-laws for the U.P. Family Life Bureau that will insure its inter-faith approach, so that no particular denomination will be able to control its program.

The inter-faith approach to marriage and sex education opens many doors that would have remained closed to a purely sectarian or a non-religious organization, said Steinmetz. Many of the schools, for example, have welcomed an approach that not only teaches the biology of sex, but sounds more principles as well. PTA organizations, both public and parochial, have sponsored programs, since many parents feel that the best way to assist their children is to first enrich their own marriage experience.

The program has been strongly supported by adult church groups, C. C. D. programs and Sunday schools. Recently it has received national recognition from both National

Kiwanis Club Hears Miron

The problems of reapportionment was the topic of an address to the Escanaba Kiwanis Club at their weekly Monday meeting, by Phil Miron, supervisor of Ford River Township, and delegate from the Upper Peninsula to the Michigan State Association of Supervisors who formed the reapportionment study committee.

Miron told of the recent reapportionment and how it had split counties and gave an increased area to the people who represent the Upper Peninsula in Lansing. The purpose of the reapportionment is to give equal rights for all, and the new program did not qualify in this respect, he said.

The population increase, especially the move from rural to city living exposed the need for reapportionment, Miron said.

The U. P. offered the problem of a greater land percentage, however, and the Supervisors Association proposed that the reapportionment be set up on 80% population, and 20% land. The Supreme Court did not go along with this proposal, and the present situation is set up only on population.

As it now stands, the Upper Peninsula has 1 1/2 Senators, and the representatives have been cut from 7 to 4, Miron said.

The present Delta County Board of Supervisors numbers 27, with nine from the city of Escanaba, four from the city of Gladstone, and the remainder from the townships which comprise the county. Miron said the Delta County Supervisors work extremely well as a unit. This is not true in all counties, he added.

Rail Retirement Medicare Signup Deadline March 31

Railroad employees who reached age 65 by the end of 1965 are reminded by the Railroad Retirement Board, that if they want to be covered for supplemental medical benefits under the new federal medicare plan when it starts in July, they must sign up by March 31.

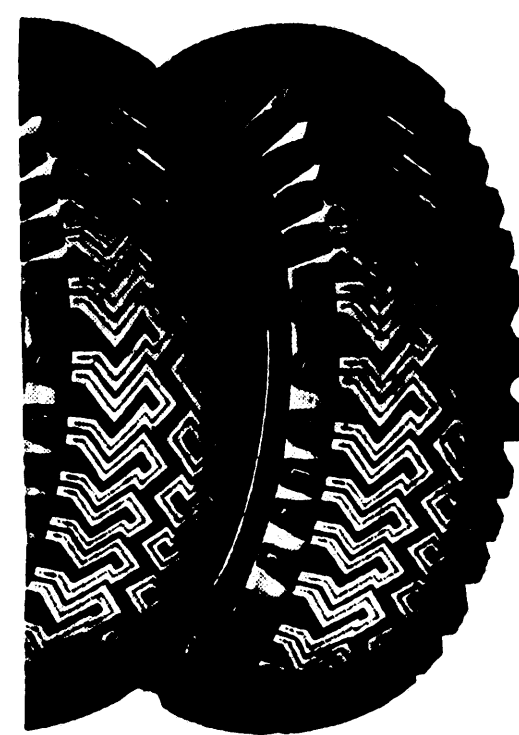

If they do not enroll by March 31 they will not have another chance to join before October 1967, and they cannot be covered for the supplemental medical benefits before July 1968. Also, persons enrolling at a later date will have to pay a higher premium than if they join now. The cost now is $3 a month.

Persons already on the benefit rolls of the Railroad Retirement Board can expedite their enrollment for supplemental medical benefits by filling out, as soon as possible, the cards included in the "enrollment kit" they received from the Board. Other eligible railroad employees and their wives can take action to obtain coverage for supplemental medical benefits at any Board office.

Local Advertiser Has 15 Phone Calls For Car

Early this month Steve Sundell of 1114 Washington Ave. advertised a 1953 Chevrolet automobile in the Daily Press Want Ads. Results? Mr. Sundell had 15 calls for the auto—but he had already sold it to the first caller. Apparently there are at least 14 other people interested in buying a car such as this. New York's Strike

There are millions of New Yorkers who would like to hang Mike Quill, head of the striking Transport Workers Union there, from a sour apple tree. The subways and buses of the world's largest city — Greater New York has a population of over 14 million — have been idle for more than a week because Quill's demands for his workers weren't met.

It's vastly oversimplifying things to hate Quill, a great ham actor who has given New York more drama in the past fortnight than it could find along Broadway. It is naive to suggest that if only the Transport Workers had another boss things would be all right.

We have legislated so strongly on the abuses against labor in the last century that the nation finds itself unable to cope with strikes of worker groups that affect the welfare of millions.

In the case of New York's transport strike there are serious overtones of labor politics at work. Victor Riesel, the labor commentator, sees the strike as a revolt of the old-fashioned labor movement against the new men of politics like New York's new Mayor John Lindsay.

The transit strike, he suggests, is not just a means to get more pay for subways and bus workers. It's a plan to maintain labor's strong hand in city hall.

"The sophisticated consensus is that Quill's strategy called for teaching the new Liberal-Republican-Fusion mayor a lesson," said Riesel. "The status quo was not to be disturbed. The coalition of traditional labor leaders, veteran political clubhouse chiefs and city hall must stay intact. That is the way many a city has been forced to deliver to many a labor chief and many a labor chief has become part of the entrenched machinery."

Mayor Lindsay started his reform administration with a strike that's harder to solve than the Viet Nam war. The departing Democrats enlarged his problems. The subway system is already $13 million in debt and will be $43 million in debt by June, even though the city subsidizes capital costs ($1 billion since 1953 for trains, for example).

New York is a chaos-ridden, sick city which has borrowed $3.1 billion to meet operating deficits for last year and the current year. The city budget, already close to $4 billion, has been going up $500 million yearly and cannot catch its over-increasing welfare costs.

Washington has been helping Democratic Mayor Wagner with War on Poverty funds and other welfare money on an ever-increasing basis. It was $76 million 10 years ago and it's $264 million this year and still short.

Transit strike mediator Theodore Kheel says the issue is only money.

But Quill is asking for his union an exorbitant package that would cost $680 million over the two year period of the contract and which would hit riders with a triple fare or hit the taxpayers for the difference. Quill's 75 demands include a 30 per cent hike in wages, a four-day week, six weeks of vacation, three new holidays and some other fringes, including retirement at half pay after 25 years regardless of age.

When the alternative to giving in to such demands is having the city thrown into a shambles of traffic and a disruption of business the size of the problem is clear.

The Chicago Tribune, feeling good about having less of an immediate problem than its big sister on the Hudson, cites that New York has a half million people on relief and since the late 1940s has lost 200,000 factory jobs. "Crime has increased, the water shortage is alarming and the city's labor unions are completely out of hand."

"A recently published book about New York is titled 'A City Destroying Itself' and a group of heavy-weight thinkers at Harvard concluded that New York was ungovernable."

"Chicago's condition is quite different. The city's per capita debt is $60 compared with New York's $430. Crime rates are down. Chicagoans pay far less taxes. It is time for Chicago's business leaders to stop hanging their heads and being awestruck by everything in New York. Chicago is not broke and it is not ungovernable."

The Doctor Says:

Sun Reflection Damages Eyes

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q—Is there such a thing as snowblindness? Is it serious?
A—Exposure of the retina to the rays of the sun reflected by snow will cause a sunspot (blind spot) due to exhaustion of certain chemicals in the retina. The same effect is produced by exposure to the direct rays of the sun as in watching an eclipse, exposure to the light of an electric arc welder or exposure to an ultraviolet lamp of the ozone-emitting type.

A certain amount of conjunctivitis (pink eye) is usually associated with this condition. The severity of the injury depends on the duration of the exposure and its intensity. The latter depends on the amount of atmosphere through which the sun's rays travel—more severe if you are at a high altitude or when the sun is directly overhead. Thus the blind spot may clear up in a few minutes or it may be permanent.

Q—Do bleeding piles ever turn into cancer? Why would they suddenly stop bleeding after bleeding off and on for eight years?

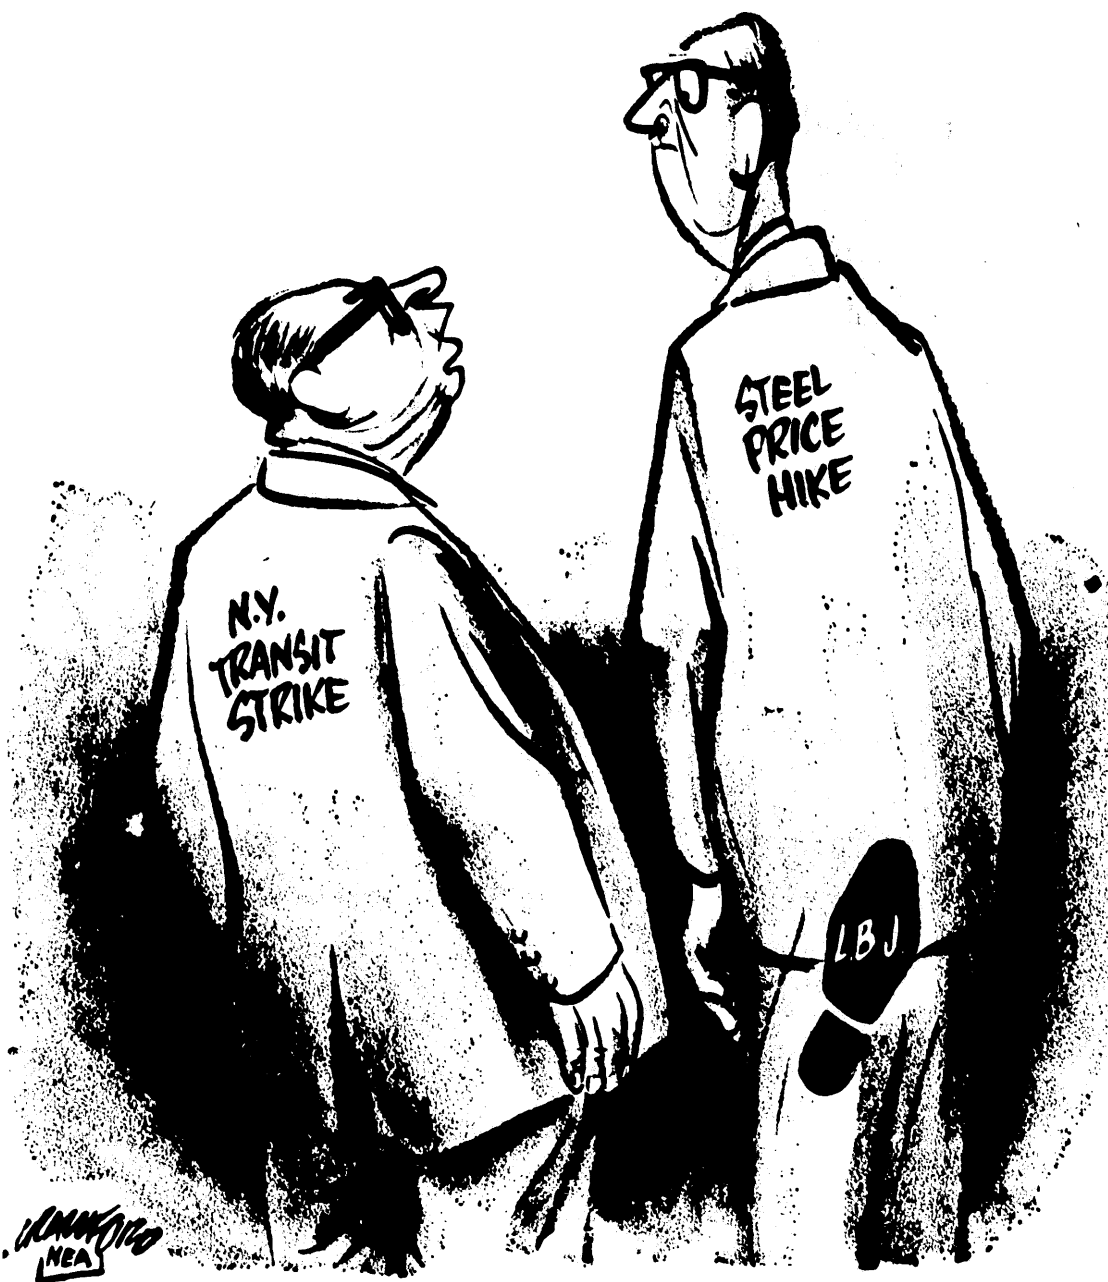

A—Both cancer near the outlet of the bowel and piles may be associated with blood in the stools, but piles do not predispose to cancer or vice versa. If piles that have been bleeding for a long time stop bleeding it may be because clots inside the hemorrhoids have turned to scar tissue or because you are having softer stools than formerly.

Q—An X-ray of my upper bowel shows polyps. Is there any way to get rid of them without an operation?
A—If your polyps are believed to be cancerous, or precancerous, they should be removed without delay. Most polyps in the digestive tract are benign and require no treatment unless they become so large as to obstruct the passage of the digestive food. There is no other way to get rid of them, however, than by surgical removal.

Q—What is encephalitis? Is it completely curable? Would pregnancy make it worse?
A—Encephalitis—also called brain fever or sleeping sickness—is an infectious disease that is usually caused by a virus. No treatment is known but about 95 per cent of the victims recover. Recovery may be complete or there may be residual effects such as weakness of the upper eyelids, mental impairment or antisocial trends that were not present before the disease. Pregnancy would not necessarily make it worse but the mother's encephalitis might harm the fetus.

NORMAL

The perennial discussion about the whitetail deer being at its height, I have been urged by many people to raise my feeble voice in the present chorus. Having no desire to disappoint my friends, or my enemies, either, I present these reflections.

Having had the rare privilege, and the time, to spend the better part of six months in the field, during 1965, I also have been permitted to observe some of the wildlife, or more correctly the absence of wildlife.

From what seems to be the point of view of the custodians of Michigan's wildlife, I have had nearly a perfect season. I didn't shoot a ruffed grouse, nor did I kill a whitetail deer of either sex. Had it not so happened that I did catch a few (very few) rainbow trout, I would have had a perfect season. I shall attempt to be more of a perfectionist during 1966.

I did, however, fulfill the expectations of the Conservation Department, in that I did my small bit to keep the wolf from the doors of the deer experts, the fish experts, etc., etc. I paid $2 for a fishing license, and $1 for a trout stamp for non-existent trout. I paid $3 for a small game license, for non-existent small game, and $5 (30 days too soon) for a doe permit which I didn't expect to use. I paid the deer license with a sense of guilt, because it seemed to me that I was contributing to the delinquency of some people in the state capital. But one must "Render unto Caesar the things that Caesar's," as the Good Book tells us.

I also made some further contributions to Caesar, a few dollars in gasoline and oil taxes. Tire tax money, and a good deal in real estate taxes, all of which goes to keep the wolf from Caesar's door.

All in all 1965 was a great year. The nation was officially at peace, although more than 1,200 American soldiers gave their lives on various battlefields, the Great Society was forging ahead in seven league boots, the rain gods had been appeased and sent us a plentiful rain, and King Winter didn't loosen his grip, except for a couple of days, when we didn't need to wear our long johns.

There was a surplus in the treasury in Lansing, and a deficit in the treasury at Washington, also in my own treasury, so things were quite normal. Perhaps 1966 cannot be expected to be any better as the same unexcelled people will be in charge of our destiny.

Karl J. Hammar

ADVICE

If the Michigan Conservation Department would have listened and acted on advice of people like Karl J. Hammar and others in regards to the deer herd, they wouldn't have needed high salaried experts to control the deer herds in the U. P. We that lived in the woods and spent a lot of time traveling in the woods of the U. P. knew the killing of does and fawns was depleting the deer herds the second year of the doe seasons. But people sitting behind desks were controlling the deer herds.

The same thing is true of the bounty system. When and if the bounty is taken off coyotes, we can forget all about rabbits and ruffed grouse. Taking the bounty off fox has already hurt our small game and I'm no expert to know that.

Gould City

COMP COST

I noted with some surprise an article in the Jan. 7 Press on workmen's compensation quoting from a discussion by D. R. Schmidt, vice president, Employers Mutual of Wausau, before the Lake States Technical Committee of the American Pulpmakers Association in Chicago recently.

This discussion must have taken place before Sept. 1, last, or Mr. Schmidt failed to learn of the insurance increase imposed on loggers by state insurance commissioner allowing request of companies for such increase.

In 1965 the rate was $13.12 until the increase of 43.4 per cent granted to become effective Sept. 1. This produces a rate of $19.17, which has been in effect since that date.

The rates quoted for several other states are well below Michigan's, but if our rate is quoted at $6.05 below the actual rate, perhaps the other rates may have risen, or have been incorrectly reported.

Pulpmakers producers are in trouble because of the very small margin between costs and price. Logging carries the highest rate of all, perhaps because an effective organization is difficult to achieve. Logging accidents are generally serious and costly, in contrast to pulpwood accidents, but no consideration can be obtained.

With skidding and hauling being done by one man with hydraulic loading equipment there is almost no chance of injury. Pieceworkers do sometimes injure themselves with a power saw, but these injuries are not as frequent as were ax injuries. Falling limbs and flying material cast by logging big timber is hazardous, but this is very minimal in pulpwood cutting.

Granted, small rate reductions are in effect for some loggers according to their experience rating. Adding $19.17, insurance, $4.60 unemployment, $4.20 social security and 40c federal unemployment, you get a fringe benefit cost of $28.37 per $100 of payroll.

At a piecework price of 12 cents per stick and 60 sticks per cord, the margin left is $2.53 per cord for balsam. Out of this must come expense of looking timber, running lines, counting piecework, financing, building roads, snow plowing, record keeping, office supplies, stamps etc.

In A Dilemma

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — America's intellectuals evidently had an unhappy time in 1965 and seem likely to have an even worse one in 1966.

President Lyndon Johnson is a man whose style they do not like. Though many Americans who are not particularly fond of the President express admiration for his 1965 legislative achievements on the domestic front, few in the intellectual community share this response.

Beyond their dislike of his personal make-up, they look upon him as almost perfectly symbolic of all they consider distasteful in the practical uses of governmental power.

A review of American intellectuals' conduct in the years leading to World War II suggests that their younger counterparts today would surely have opposed the war in Viet Nam under any circumstances. But the present war serves them especially as a means of venting their hostility toward the President.

As an observer close to government sees it, the intellectuals' thumping criticisms of the Viet Nam war serve further to cloak the fact that the big rush of Great Society programs robbed them of most of their favorite domestic issues.

There has been huge irony in the circumstance that a president who had no appeal for them should have done so on the domestic front—so many of the things they said needed doing.

The intellectuals would have been uncomfortable praising Johnson for passage of Medicare, civil rights bills, new housing laws and the like. In effect, he took them off the hook by stepping up the fighting in Southeast Asia.

They are more likely to have some limited effect on his war policies by escalating their already well-publicized vocal opposition. Persons near the President expect much more of this in 1966 from the intellectual community and believe it will have some influence.

Curiously, though, its effect may be the opposite of what the intellectuals would wish. By pounding at the President as a "hawk," they may reinforce and even enlarge the voting support he could draw from many moderate-to-conservative Republicans. Generally they tend to favor a strong Viet Nam policy. Benefit could accrue to a good many office-seeking Democrats.

So the year 1966 would appear to hold little to cheer the intellectuals. Some historians would perhaps argue that this prospect is not worth noting, that the breed enjoys unhappiness, alienation from the seats of power, loneliness.

That may well be. But they have to be noted, for in the era of television their distressful criticisms inevitably fill the wide screen and have impact

Husband Should Feel Ashamed

Dear Ann Landers: I live in Denver. If I lived in Chicago I would go right over to your office and give you a kiss for the letter you printed about the woman who is going through the menopause and whose husband thought she was complaining just to get attention. I am married to the same kind.

For over a year I have had dizzy spells and hot flashes. One minute I feel like I am burning up. Ten minutes later I have to put on a sweater. Last week I got a terrible hot flash during a bridge game. Max and I have a set game every Thursday night with his sister and her husband. Thank God it wasn't strangers. I said, "Max, I'm hot. Please open the window."

He said, "In five minutes you'll be telling me to turn up the heat. I think you are getting nutty."

A person who hasn't gone through the change can't imagine what it's like. Please print this letter and I will put it right under Max's chopped herring tonight.—GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: Here's your letter and I'd like to add a word of my own. Any wife who goes to the trouble of making chopped herring for her husband deserves extra love and consideration. Now, aren't you ashamed of yourself, Max?

Dear Ann Landers: I am 12 years old and need your advice already.

Yesterday was Mom's birthday. Us kids didn't remember her with a card or anything and neither did Dad. Mom was very quiet until dinner time. Then all of a sudden she said, "I guess I am only a housekeeper and laundry woman around here. Nobody cares about me. Not one of you remembered that today was my birthday."

Dad said he was sorry but he had had a lot on his mind lately. My older sister almost cried. My little brother went to his room and got his piggy bank. He tried to give it to Mom but she wouldn't take it.

We love Mom and feel very sorry about this. What can we do to make her happy again?—FAMILY TROUBLES

Dear Family: It's too late to do anything about Mom's birthday this year, so stop crying. She will cheer up faster if you are sweet and helpful around the house.

C&NW 'Splices' 600 Iron Ore Cars

PRODUCTION LINE methods are used to speed the alterations to the ore cars. The top sections are lifted into place by crane and welders fasten them securely in place. Thirteen welding machines are in operation. The cars are also made tight by closing up any small holes through which ore might be lost. (Daily Press Photo)

HANDLES ARE BOLTED onto the top sections before they are lifted into place, and pictured at work on this phase of the project are (from the left) Francis DeGrand and Leslie LeDuc. Brake wheels and platforms on the cars must also be altered because of the additional car height. (Daily Press Photo)

TOWN AND COUNTRY MOTORS, INC., 2600 Ludington St.

By CLINT DUNATHAN

The handlers of iron ore have evolved many changes through the years to meet developments in the business, and the most recent is the Chicago & North Western Railway's "splicing" of ore cars to give them additional capacity.

Each year there are reports of the successful "splicing" of ore boats. They are cut in half and lengthened with a center section to provide more cargo space.

The North Western Railway through its car repair shop at Escanaba, with Alex St. Cyr car foreman, is putting the "splice" on top of the cars. There were 700 cars thus extended one and one-half years ago and now 600 more are in process of enlargement.

The work is being done in the North Western yards just off 3rd Ave. N., where the cars are repaired as well as enlarged.

Increased Capacity

The 700 cars that were done over a year and a half ago were of 70 tons type and the extension raised the tops of the cars by 18 inches.

The present project to enlarge 600 cars of 50 tons is giving them a 29-inch top "lift" to make them capable of carrying 66 tons of ore.

These cars are used in the transportation of pelletized ore and St. Cyr explained why the increase in carrying capacity is so desirable.

"Each pellet of ore is round — like a marble," St. Cyr pointed out. "And like marbles, there's a lot of lost space between them."

Ready By Spring

To carry additional volume of pellet ore, the sides of the cars are raised and the problem is solved. Unlike natural ore, the pellet ore is dry and even in freezing weather can be dumped from the ore cars into the dock pockets without the necessity of thawing. For this reason the holes in the sides of the car, through which steam was injected to thaw natural ore, are being welded shut.

Every seam and opening in the body of the car is closed in a "coopering" process to make sure there are no holes through which the pellet ore can spill. For iron ore is an increasingly valuable commodity and leakage can be costly.

"This project cost is about $200,000 and is well under way," said St. Cyr. "We have been 36 days on the job so far and 108 of the 600 cars are done. They should all be ready by the time the ore shipping season opens."

Twenty-nine men are employed on the project, which includes other work than the extension of the car tops. The lubricators in all journal boxes of the cars are being changed (this is a requirement every 24 months); and the hand brakes and platforms at the ends of the cars have to be raised as the car's height is increased.

The final step in the ore car extension project is the cleaning and re-weighting of each car. This is essential in determining the amount of ore each car has in it when it arrives at Escanaba for shipment.

The North Western is now in its 102nd year of ore shipping from Escanaba and there appears to be a long and bright future for the iron port with the utilization of low grade ores through the process of beneficiation.

From a trickle that began four years ago, the volume of pelletized ore shipped from Escanaba by the North Western is a growing flood that totaled about three million tons in 1965 — about one-half of the total for the port.

Adult Education Program Begins At Bark River

The Adult Education program of the Bark River-Harris Public Schools will begin with two courses on Thursday, Jan. 13.

The subjects scheduled are Physical Education for men and women which will meet in the gym; and knitting which will meet in the library of the Elementary School. Both classes will start at 7:30. Persons who have not yet registered may do so at the first session. Registration fees are $2.50 for physical education, and $5 for knitting.

There is almost enough persons indicating interest in "New Math," and typing, to warrant their scheduling, said school officials. Area residents who would like to participate in either course are urged to pre-register. Deadline for registrations in any field is Friday, Jan. 14.

BOTH LONG and short gowns will be after-five favorites this spring. Smocking has been promoted from the kindergarten to the girl-about-town set (left) in this short pink chiffon dress. It is beaded from neck to hip and ends in a flippy skirt. A long, sinuous torso stretches lazily down

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The spring evening scene, judging from the fashion showings here in New York, will be either long, flowery and slinky or short, feathered and flounced. You can take your choice.

You can also choose between the sparkling jeweled look or the flat crepe look with no glitter at all.

The strapless gown is still with us and the one-shoulder dress continues to be a favorite. Newer is the halter neckline. Many spring after-five Diamond side cut-outs and lots of ostrich and feather trim inject a siren look into spring evening wardrobes.

Flowered chiffon steals a good part of the show and white has just about become today's basic black.

There is white crepe, white matte jersey and spidery white cotton lace.

Since everyone can't successfully wear white, there's lots of pink, yellow, pale green and blue around. And navy is now coming into its own for evening as well as daytime.

Clothes for the cocktail hour are so feminine and pretty that they will delight any woman worthy of the name.

Attending the meeting were Luther Barrett, superintendent of Escanaba Area Public Schools; Carlton Olson, president of the School Board and Steve Baltic. Mr. Barrett explained the necessity of voters of the Escanaba Area to accept the operational millage and school bond issue to be voted on Feb. 1. There is a need of new schools in Escanaba and acceptance of this issue would provide a new Washington, Franklin and south side school and necessary improvements to other schools. Each PTA unit has been asked to help promote the issue: Mrs. Fred Van-Enen was chosen chairman for calling committees.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. James Dehlin, his topic, "When and What to Tell Children About Sex." Several booklets on the subject are available to parents. To further emphasize the importance of the proper knowledge of this subject, Dr. Dehlin presented an educational record by Dr. Murray Banks.

Due to the resignation of secretary, Mrs. Francis Smokovich, Mrs. Vincent Lewis accepted the position for balance of school year.

A nominating committee was chosen, consisting of Mrs. Ruth Tippet, Mrs. Vincent Lewis, Mrs. Leo LaVigne, Jr. and Mrs. Wilfred Beauvais. GLADSTONE

City Extends Tax Deadline

The Gladstone City Commission, meeting in short session Monday night, extended the tax deadline for city residents to Feb. 15 and authorized expenditure of up to $300 for a city hockey program.

Original deadline for payment of taxes in Gladstone was Jan. 10.

The appropriation for hockey will be spent to put the ice rink in shape for a city program, including purchase of new boards and equipment. Jim Pinar, Gladstone high school teacher, had previously volunteered to supervise a city program.

The Commission also acted favorably on all three items on its agenda.

The invitation of the Charter Commission to meet Monday, Jan. 17, to discuss proposed changes in the charter was accepted.

City Manager H. J. Hennikson said areas being considered for revision include the Board of Review, the 15-mill tax limitation and the Justice of the Peace position.

The Piggly-Wiggly S. D. M. liquor license was approved for transfer from 708 Delta Ave. to 908 Delta Ave.

The Commission authorized the city assessor to attend an assessing conference in Houghton Feb. 15-16.

James McCarthy, proprietor of Pat & Jim's, asked the commission to have the snow removed from Delta Ave. from 12th St. to the highway. Previously snow has been removed from 7th to 12th St.

The Commission agreed snow should be removed to the highway as soon as possible after a snowfall.

The city manager was authorized to advertise for bids for a pump and equipment for the lift station on Minneapolis Ave. Bids will be opened at the first meeting next month.

Excitement For Outdoorsmen

New Fish Promised In '66

BY LEE SMITHS

Naturally, as we slide from 1965 into 1966, we take stock of what has happened and what we can hope will happen in Michigan outdoors. Sixty-five was eventful. The wild turkey demonstrated that he is truly wild. A token quail shoot has, perhaps, opened the way for an annual quail season in conjunction, it could be, with pheasant season, although to develop a combination quail-and-pheasant dog seems like asking too much of the canine species.

We've been promised new fish, such as the coho, the striped bass, the splake; also a start toward propagating warm-water fish with the prospect of farm ponds yielding fun and protein, especially when and if our farmers become aware of the recreational resources of their lands.

A decision will have to be made somewhere along the line: if the farmer is to receive federal and state aid in propagating fish and wildlife on his land he will have to admit the public, with no charge. Or, if he proceeds with management programs on his own he can charge reasonable fees and find sportsmen eager to pay. That long ago became the established practice in Britain and on the continent.

AN ATTORNEY concerned with history will explain that the American concept of game belonging to the people, is derived from the ancient principle that all game was crown property.

Title to wildlife was immediately taken over by colonists in America. The state eventually set up rules for harvesting. Never was an important public interest put under state control without generating complaints. Protests have been especially loud about deer-management practices of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Outdoor writers are inclined to attribute these protests to a short-sighted, unsentimental view of the deer problem. One Michigan sportsman has a different explanation. Dr. Ralph Kernkamp, of Detroit, was invited to put his diagnosis on paper, which he did, a week before his sudden death.

THE TYPICAL Michigan hunter today is a town person. He never took a hand in raising cattle, hogs, horses, sheep. It isn't easy for him to understand that wild animals must have a year-around supply of food. Woods are woods to him. He doesn't look to see how much deer forage is available in the territory he hunts. Perhaps if 600,000 deer hunters could be taken on guided tours by biologists, and shown winter and summer, and shown the acute shortage of cedar and hardwood browse in large areas, maybe then rational deer management would be gracefully accepted.

"Michigan conservation authorities would do well to forget about harvesting antlerless deer. Let the northern deer herds continue to deplete their food supply until it is all gone and, of course, the deer are gone with it. If that seems like a defeatist attitude, bear in mind that Michigan has a wonderful reserve breeding stock of whitetails. The southern third of the state is inhabited by big, healthy deer. Deer in farming country will continue to thrive because farm crops insure a bountiful food supply. If bucks-only deer hunting eradicated the northern deer, in due time, with the help of commercial cutting, there would be a re-growth of browse and the northern counties would be re-stocked by deer from the southern part of the state."

A GENERATION has to be replaced before fixed notions are overcome. For more than a quarter of a century the wasteful folly of predator bounties was preached before Michigan and other progressive states put a stop to bounties. The legislature now has before it a bill to eliminate coyote bounties, along with fox and bobcat, and reports are that the bill has a good chance.

For a good many years fish management consisted in pouring swarms of fry into lakes and streams. This method of fish-planting was vociferously advocated by many sportsmen long after its utility had been demonstrated. The costly planting of pen-reared pheasants had to be continued, under public pressure, until the fact that these birds couldn't survive to breed became generally accepted.

Whether Michigan deer are managed as a rancher would manage sheep, with a view to staying in business, or whether they get more and more out of balance with their forage, it is a safe prediction that Michigan will still be rated as one of the best white-tail regions on the continent.

You can dry more than five loads in a Gas dryer for the cost of doing one in an electric. Which means your Gas dryer will pay for itself in just seven years. And most Gas dryers last for more than ten years.

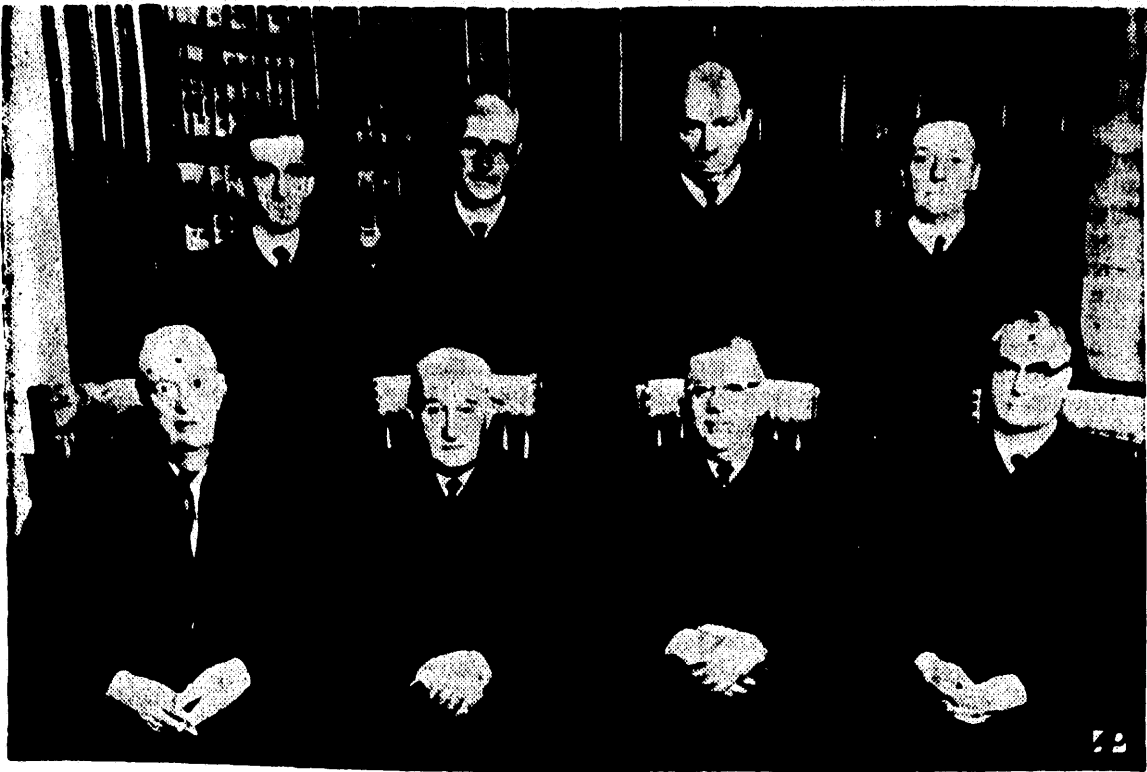

What's more, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will connect new and used Gas dryers free in the areas we serve. And maintenance expense is negligible. In a survey of more than 300 families who owned their Gas dryers an average of five years,* total maintenance costs averaged out to less than 20¢ per year per dryer.

During Gas Dryer Dividend Days, prices are reduced to save you even more. So see the latest Gas dryer models at your dealer or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showrooms.

'Cancer Drug' Case Near End

CHICAGO (UPI) — After 8½ months, the krebiozen fraud and conspiracy trial of Dr. Andrew C. Ivy and his associates will soon go to the jury.

And, after 15 years, a verdict of sorts is near on the merits of the alleged "cancer drug." The windup of the marathon trial of Ivy and three other men begins in the U.S. District Court this week with 2½ hours of final arguments. It has been the longest trial in the history of the district court here. Testimony has run to more than 3.7 million words.

The bank of government and defense attorneys and Judge Julius J. Hoffman continued their discussions on proposed instructions to the jury. Then, final arguments begin, and these will take most of an entire court week. Finally, the case will go to the jury of seven women and five men.

The verdict will help determine history's judgment of Ivy, 72, former vice president of the University of Illinois, the American witness on ethics at the Nuremberg war trials, a renowned physiologist and chief medical sponsor of krebiozen.

The verdict also will help decide whether another defendant, Dr. Stevan Durovic, Yugoslav refugee and discoverer of krebiozen, has been, as his attorney said, accorded the same treatment the past 15 years "as that accorded Louis Pasteur before he won fame."

Beyond this, the verdict may go a long way toward settling whether krebiozen may be effective in curing or slowing the effects of cancer — and thus should be given further tests — or whether krebiozen is just a quack medicine.

The American Medical Association as long ago as 1951 when krebiozen was first made public, and the U.S. government, through the Food and Drug Administration, already have rendered their judgments: krebiozen, they say, is worthless.

Hilbert On Board Of Tax Appeals

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney has appointed former State Sen. Frederic Hilbert, Wayland, to the Board of Tax Appeals.

Senate confirmation is required of the appointment. During his two terms in the senate, Hilbert was chairman of the conservation committee.

Michigan Senate Leader Gives Goals For 1966

(Editors: Here is a statement by Senate Majority Leader Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, on the upcoming legislative session. The statement was written exclusively for United Press International.)

By RAYMOND D. DZENDZEL

LANSING (UPI) — Following three decades of futile attempts, the key features of the Democratic party's platform were achieved during the 1965 session of the 73rd Legislature. With the Democrats assuming control of the Senate and House of Representatives in 1965, and with the governor embracing many of our programs, we were able to write historic laws that have been badly needed for many years.

"Remarkable Task"

The accolades for the Legislature from groups representative of labor, business and industry, news media editorials, the governor and the public have provided us with more assurance that we are pursuing the course that is in the best interests of the public. Quite naturally, we feel we have performed a remarkable task in being able to enact laws covering a wide variety of areas such as education, senior citizens, labor, traffic safety, law enforcement, welfare, public health, conservation, recreation and so on. However, contrary to the normal method of operation, the majority party has no intention of resting on its laurels during the second session . . . which is an election year. Although it is customary for legislatures to do all the work it can in the first session and save time and energy in the second year for campaigning, we intend to employ as much determination and responsibility in the legislative session ahead of us as we did in the past year.

Last Thursday, speaker Kowalski and I issued a joint statement outlining our legislative goals and announced the theme of the 1966 session is 'progressive reform.' Those who have had an opportunity to review our proposed program will certainly agree that 'progressive reform' is an appropriate theme. We will concentrate on three primary areas that have been in need of legislative attention for years: consumer protection, traffic safety & law enforcement, and governmental reform.

Chart Future Course

In order to enact the myriad of legislation that is necessary to fully cover those three complicated and vital areas, we will have to devote considerable time and energy in the Legislature this year. I am certain that some of our critics who are members of the minority party in the Legislature are not used to this type of second phase operation, however I hope they will realize that this must be done if we are not only to bring Michigan out of the past and into our present time, but also to chart a progressive course for the future.

I believe the record of our 1965 session shows that we are on the right track and the record of the 1966 legislative session will prove that government can keep abreast of an accelerated society of its leaders have the desire to truly respond to the needs of the people.

Soil Service Gets New Head

Verne M. Bathurst has been named state conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He succeeds Allan J. Collins, retired. The Soil Conservation Service develops and carries out a soil and water conservation program through Michigan soil and water conservation districts.

Under Bathurst's direction are the 285 Soil Conservation Service workers in the state. This force provides technical assistance in the proper use of Michigan's soil, water and plant resources. The work is carried out in cooperation with Michigan's 82 soil conservation districts. Resource conservation plans are developed with individuals and groups as a means of bringing about wise land use and an improved economy in rural areas.

Church Pews Now Made For Looks, Comfort

CHICAGO (UPI) — When the Mayflower landed at Plymouth the settlers stood or sat on unhewn logs at worship services. Today's churchgoer is being coddled with upholstered kneelers, seats and backs.

The trend to upholster pews was making a small showing as far back as 1950, according to a survey among members of the Church Furniture Manufacturers Association (CFMA), a division of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers.

In 1950, only 12 per cent of total production of church pews was given to upholstered pews. Today, 41 per cent of pews are cushioned. By 1970, the percentage of upholstered pews is expected to reach 56.36, the CFMA survey said.

The reason for the big increase is that architects and church buying committees are specifying more comfort than required in past decades.

Not only are pews padded, the old oak pew now looks a bit dated. Veneers and flake core veneers are frequently used at pew ends and finishes are as handsome as those used on home furniture.

Architects want pew design to conform to church design. The use of molded plywood permits more plasticity in pew design. Some manufacturers think the plastic pew, which offers similar advantages of molded plywood but is expected to be less expensive, is not too far away.

Also of interest to purchasers of church furniture is the use of Scotchguard on fabrics, veneer construction, concealed anchorage of pews to floors, new style pew folding kneelers, and long-length upholstery to eliminate uncomfortable center divisions.

Special delivery mail service was inaugurated in 1985.

Missing Ballot Ties Up Vote; Social Feb. 21

MIDDLEVILLE (UPI) — A special election will be held Feb. 21 on a millage proposal for the Thornapple-Kelleog School District voters because a tie vote resulted from a missing ballot on Dec. 6.

The Feb. 21 vote, announced Monday, will break a 184-184 deadlock which occurred Dec. 6 on a proposed 6.5 mill operational tax for two years.

Election records showed 369 votes were cast but no one could find the missing ballot which could have obviated the necessity for the second election Feb. 21.

Lundmark's entry, submitted at Central Pharmacy in Gladstone, was selected from millions of entries in the nationwide contest.

"Never in my life have I ever gotten anything in a contest — either big or small," Lundmark said excitedly. "It's like making a hole-in-one on the golf course."

That, he said, he has never accomplished in years on the golf course, either.

Lundmark, 61, of 1602 Michigan Ave., said he and his wife haven't thought too much about what to do with the prizes, worth thousands of dollars. "After the excitement wears off, I'll be thinking about how much in taxes I'll have to pay," he said.

Besides the new car, Lundmark will receive home entertainment center including a color television set, stereo, hi-fi record player and AM-FM radio, a mink stole, two wrist watches, portable stereo phonograph, a cashmere sweater with mink collar, a stadium blanket and a thermos kit.

Lundmark said he submitted only one entry to the contest.

The Sweepstakes closed Sept. 30. Lundmark was the first grand-prize winner ever drawn from the five-state midwestern area in the Chicago District.

Ray Menard, proprietor of Central Pharmacy, said it will take an estimated 30 to 60 days for the prizes to arrive from New York.

Central Pharmacy had a second winner in Roy Froberg of Kipling, who will receive a stadium blanket.

the ruling Congress party meets to elect the new Prime Minister.

Radhakrishnan told a grieving nation in a radio broadcast late today Shastri would be honored posthumously with India's highest civilian award, the Bharat Ratna, jewel of India. He said sadly he had planned to announce the award on Shastri's return from Tashkent for his meritorious work in the cause of peace.

All telegraph lines to New Delhi were jammed with messages of condolence to Shastri's widow, Lalita, and other members of the family. Shastri's death cast a shadow over the nation. Food rationing, the threat of a grave famine and continuing border troubles with Communist China were the three primary problems Shastri's successor will have to face.

Rufus Spaulding was honored at a family dinner party at the Grover Spaulding home Thursday, Jan. 6 to celebrate his 78th birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Buech and family of Manistique were present for the occasion. During the evening men from the neighborhood joined him in playing a few games of cards.

Mrs. Mildred Tatrow spent a month in Matawan, N. J. with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Tatrow and family. She also spent some time sightseeing in New York City. Tankers Setting Shipping Records

Neither cold, nor ice, nor the lateness of the season is halting the movement of tankers bringing fuel to the terminals on the Little Bay de Noc shore this year.

The 316-foot Polaris, her sides and bow decorated with winter's icy badge after her passage from East Chicago, docked at the Shell Oil Co. marine terminal at Wells about noon today. Capt. Martin Campbell is in command of the tanker that has a cargo capacity of 35,000 barrels. Apparently without unfortunate incident the Polaris plowed through ice up to five inches thick to bring gas and oil to the Shell terminal, said Paul Buchholtz, terminal foreman.

The Coast Guard cutter Mesquite arrived in Little Bay de Noc earlier in the morning to assist in opening channels to the terminal. The cutter Sundew of Charlevoix had been scheduled for the escort but the Mesquite appeared instead from her base at Sturgeon Bay.

The Polaris arrived on one of the coldest days so far this season. Temperatures in Escanaba dropped to an official 2 above, but elsewhere in the area there were reports of sub-zero cold as low as -5.

The Wade Corp. is expecting the tanker Meteor here from Whiting, Ind., perhaps as early as 6 p. m. Friday — more likely Saturday morning — with a cargo of jet fuel.

Mrs. Heminger told Manistique firemen that she was washing clothes in the basement when she heard a noise which sounded like an explosion. She ran up the stairs and fled the home to summon help when she saw the kitchen area in flames.

Addie Boyd, Daily Press motor route driver, picked up Mrs. Heminger and took her to the Wells Bowers residence to call the fire department.

The interior of the two-bedroom home was gutted and the furniture destroyed. Some clothing was saved from closets by neighbors, who came to assist. Mr. Heminger was at work at Inland Lime & Stone Co. at the time.

Firemen said cause of the fire has not been determined. There was no estimate made of damage.

The family will attempt to make temporary living quarters in cabins which they own at the site.

Big Chill Goes To Northeast

By United Press International

The Northeast shivered today as the second cold front in three days swept in on cold Arctic air accompanied by snow flurries and snow squalls.

It was expected to touch as far south as the Gulf Coast where temperatures Monday reached into the 70s. The Pacific Coast was rainswept and snow fell inland to northern Idaho. Scattered showers fell in Florida and otherwise dry conditions prevailed over much of the nation.

The cold, which already passed across northern Minnesota and the upper Great Lakes region, left temperatures there well below zero today. Readings from the mid-Mississippi valley to New York state were in the teens.

An inch of new snow fell in northern Maine during the night. As the cold winds passed over relatively warm lake waters, they stirred up heavy snow squalls. Sault Ste. Marie, in upper Michigan, was one area hit with an inch of new snow.

An elderly man burned to death near Oshkosh, Wis., when his clothes caught fire as he was attempting to thaw frozen water pipes.

Varnum May Be Erlandsen Foe

MANISTIQUE—Charles Varnum of Manistique was mentioned Monday night as a possible Republican candidate for the 107th Michigan legislative district at a meeting of Republican leaders here with Charles McLaughlan, vice president of the GOP State Central Committee, and Keith Molin, 11th District GOP field representative.

Varnum, who is Schoolcraft County Republican chairman, a member of the Manistique Junior High School faculty, and a Marine service veteran, would be opposing Democrat Einar Erlandsen, of Escanaba, veteran Democratic representative, if he were to be the Republican nominee in the 107th Legislative District.

Present prospect is that the 107th will not be disturbed in the current state apportionment controversy. The district includes all of Delta except the northwest corner, most of Schoolcraft County, all of Luce and the top of Chippewa, including the city of Sault Ste. Marie.

McLaughlan and Molin stopped in Manistique as part of a tour of the Upper Peninsula to discuss 1966 election strategy.

Also mentioned as a Republican candidate for the State Legislature was Clifford Perras of Nadeau in the 108th District.

In the 11th U. S. Congressional District, one of 14 areas in the state where the GOP expects to make maximum effort, Molin noted that Leland Hooker of Houghton, former member of the State Conservation Commission, has already announced his candidacy. Philip Ruppe of Houghton also has expressed interest in the post in an effort to unseat incumbent Ray Clevenger (D-Sault Ste. Marie).

Principal state campaign issues include the removal of tolls on the Mackinac Bridge, development and action to advance secondary and higher education, the proposed four-year college at Sault Ste. Marie and action to develop tourism on a year-around basis in the Upper Peninsula.

Molin accused the Legislature of dragging its feet on the Mackinac Bridge toll removal question during the last session. "The punitive $3.75 toll is chasing tourists away," he said.

There will be a joint meeting of both circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church on Thursday, Jan. 13, at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. William Bucholtz. An important business meeting will be held and every member is urged to come.

Lemm Through As Card Coach

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Wally Lemm, who always tried to enjoy football, parted company with the St. Louis Cardinals Monday following a painful 5-0 season and a command that he spend more time in St. Louis.

Lemm, who once said, "football, in my book, is still supposed to be fun," heard club owners order him to work year-around in St. Louis and away from his family in Lake Bluff, Ill.

"When the issue came up again today," said team president Charles (Stormy) Bidwill, "there was no compromise available and, by mutual consent, he (Lemm) is leaving the organization."

Lemm's contract, which he signed last January at a "whopping pay increase" still had a year to go.

Owens AFL Title

The 45-year-old coach had guided the Cardinals to a 9-3-2 season in 1964 and his record included an American Football League championship when he led the Houston Oilers to 10 consecutive victories in 1961.

But the Cardinals fell in the other way in 1965. They lost their last six games and eight of their last nine contests.

The Cardinals were torn apart by injuries to quarterback Charley Johnson, fullback Joe Childress, safeties Larry Wilson and Jerry Stovall, and linebacker Larry Stallings. All of them missed more than three games. They had been rated as contenders until they fell apart.

Lemm once remarked that the demands of coaching away from his family were hard on him, but he emphasized that he didn't want to resign.

"We want someone to work in the organization all year round," said Bidwill. "This is something my brother (Bill, club vice president) and I hashed out over the past two

Yago Hits 17; Northern Wins

(By The Associated Press)

Northern Michigan's Wildcats added to their small college national scoring lead Monday night by trouncing hapless Wayne State 116-67 in Detroit.

Meanwhile, another high-scoring Michigan five, Davenport Institute, ran away from Michigan Lutheran 127-81. The other game played on the small college circle Monday night saw Ferris State win its first game of the season 76-75 over Aquinas.

Center Gene Summe rsand forward Con Yagodzinski led the Wildcat attack dumping in 33 and 17 points respectively as Northern emptied the bench against the Tartars.

Wayne State, hampered by the loss of three varsity players due to bad grades, was led by Dan Gardzioli and Marty Letzmann who had 16 points apiece.

The Hematites were 20 points behind at one stage in the game, trailing 32-12 in the second period . . . The victory boosted Ishpeming's overall record to 7-1.

Latest Escanaba cribbage player to hold a perfect 29 hand was Ken Boudreau who held three fives and the jack of spades and drew the five of spades in a game with his brother, Leonard . . . He needed all of them to squeak out a narrow victory.

Ann Knight bowed out of bowling in the Tuesday Early Bird League in spectacular fashion last week . . . A 130 average kegler, she slammed a 235 game in a 512 series . . . The diminutive bowler, weighing under 100 pounds, decided to discontinue bowling after getting married last Saturday, according to league secretary Mrs. L. J. Constantineau.

The Wakefield Cardinals smashed three records in a 110-59 Michigan Wisconsin Conference triumph over Hurley . . . The Wakefield total topped the former conference single game scoring record of 199 set by Ashland last month, broke the previous Hurley gym record of 105 points set by Phillips, Wis., in 1955 and wiped out the previous Wakefield school record of 101 established by the Cardinals in a game against Iron River in 1964 . . . Six Cards scored in double figures, led by Al Inkala with 27 points.

Spartans Trip Purdue, 89-78

By United Press International

Things are settling down for the Michigan Wolverines but across the state Michigan State is beginning to find its basketball oats.

The defending Big Ten Wolverines found easy pickings against Indiana Monday night and romped to an 88-68 victory. The Spartans won their second straight in the conference by dumping Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., 89-78.

It puts both teams in a tie with Illinois for the conference lead and could be an indication of things to come.

Michigan, which started slowly last Saturday against Ohio State, led most of the way mainly on the sharp-shooting of All-American Cazzie Russell. The Wolverine Cazzie-star had help from Jim Myers, a pleasant surprise for Coach Dave Strack in a season of disappointments thus far, who had 24 points.

The balanced Michigan attack was rounded out by Oliver Darden who had 19 points and John Clawson with 13.

Stan Washington and Bill Curtis sunk the Boiler-makers' one man attack getting 31 and 27 points respectively. Dave Schellase, one of the nation's leading scorers, notched 30 points for Purdue.

Washington had 21 points in the second half while Curtis chipped in 15 as the Spartans controlled both boards and hit well from the outside to break the Purdue zone defense.

Both teams will be idle until Saturday when Michigan will meet a hot-shooting Northwestern team at Evanston, Ill., and Michigan State entertains the dangerous Buckeyes.

Hull Stretches Scoring Margin

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bobby (Golden Boy) Hull, bidding to become the second man in modern National Hockey League history to make a goal-a-game average stand up over the entire season, has increased his league leading scoring totals to 32 goals and 55 points.

Official figures released Tuesday showed the 27-year-old Hull picked up six more points in three games last week (three goals and three assists) to move 13 points ahead of Detroit's Norm Ullman and Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, each with 42 points. Two-time scoring champion Stan Mikita, also of the Black Hawks, was 15 points off the pace with 40 points, while 20-year NHL veteran Gordie Howe, a six-time winner of the Art Ross Scoring Trophy, was fifth with 38 points.

Red Wing center Alex Delvecchio was 20 points off Hull's pace-setting total with 35 points while Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens had 34, Bob Nevin of the Rangers had 33 and Bob Pulford of Toronto had 32. Tied for 10th place with 30 points were Murray Oliver of Boston and Henri Richard of the Canadiens.

Hull, who missed four of Chicago's first 34 games, approached the mid-season point in even more impressive style than he did a year ago. Then he had 52 points, including 31 goals and everyone was predicting he was a sure bet to eclipse the single season goal production mark of 50 he shares with former Canadiens Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion. Richard scored his 50 in the 1944-45 when there were only 50 games on the schedule.

Hull collapsed during the second half of last season. He increased his total to 38 goals by Feb. 7 but injured his knee that night and scored only one goal the rest of the way.

The Montreal netminding tandem of Gump Worsley and Charlie Hodge boasts the best goals-per-game average, 2.45, with Glenn Hall next at 2.50.

Detroit's Roger Crozier, who has a 2.57 mark, tops all goalies with five shutouts. Hall has four.

Ted Green of the Boston Bruins leads in penalty minutes with 97 — and he's appeared in only 20 games.

Boxing Expert Questions Clay Flunking Army Test

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A boxing expert questions whether Cassius Clay is pulling strings somewhere, because no one, including Clay, can convince him the champion is not intelligent enough to serve in the Army.

"I spent the better part of 10 days talking with Clay in 1963 while he was in London to fight Henry Cooper. I came away convinced here is an intelligent young man who seems to know what he wants and is determined to get it. He also struck me as a very warm person, sensitive to what people think of him and a man of great imagination.

"In Chicago Monday, Clay intimated he did not know Silverman. Asked to comment on Silverman's remarks, the champion asked a question of his own: 'Who's he?'

"Clay owes boxing and his country a large debt," said Silverman, "and the best way he can pay it off is by enlisting in the Army. The presence of the heavyweight champion in Viet Nam, for instance, in these perilous times would do a lot for the morale of the troops there."

Silverman alluded to the fact that Joe Louis, regarded by some as the greatest heavyweight champion of all time, didn't wait to be drafted and joined the Army on his own during World War II, and at the peak of his career, too.

"Certainly the champion owes that much to his country. No one is asking him to take up a gun and start shooting, but the least he can do is make an appearance — to let the boys doing the fighting know that he is one of them."

The college All-Stars first victory in the All-Star football game came in 1937, the fourth game, over Green Bay.

Georgia Almost Spills Kentucky From Unbeaten

By United Press International

Life at the top can be a nightmare, as second-ranked Kentucky learned on a visit to Athens, Ga.

The proud basketball juggernaut of Adolph Rupp swept into town Monday night with a 10-0 record and barely escaped with a double-overtime 69-65 victory over Georgia. The aroused underdogs, down 34-21 at the half, came snarling back at the Wildcats in the second period.

Sophomore Frank Harscher sank a lay-up as the final buzzer sounded to knot the contest at 60-60 and send it into overtime.

With the game tied at 63-63, Cliff Berger sank two foul shots for the Wildcats and Tommy Kron netted a jump shot to put Kentucky out of reach. Each team then scored two more points.

Third-ranked Vanderbilt, coasting behind Clyde Lee's 29 points and 28 rebounds, buried Mississippi 106-58.

Kansas rolled to an easy 89-68 conquest of Oklahoma. Walt Wesley scored 27 points and blocked many shots for the 10th-ranked Jayhawks. Four other players hit in double figures for Kansas. Don Sidle's 24 points were high for the Sooners.

All-American Cazzie Russell scored 27 points to pace Michigan to an 88-68 victory over Indiana and first-place tie for the Big 10 Conference lead with Illinois and Michigan State. Chris Pervall, who scored 24, and Gerry Jones, who hit 22, led Iowa to a 70-58 victory over Northwestern.

Jim Meyers (24) and Oliver Darden (19) helped the Michigan cause.

Stan Washington's 31 points led Michigan State to an 89-78 victory over Purdue. Purdue's Dave Schellase, among the highest collegiate scorers in the nation, tallied 30 points.

Halas Bucks Rams Hiring George Allen

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The turmoil and bitterness that today clouded the appointment of George Allen as new head coach of the Los Angeles Rams should dispell any doubts about the harsh business that is professional football.

Allen—whose talents as an assistant coach earned him the game ball when the Chicago Bears won the National Football League championship in successor to the fired Harland Svare. And Monday, Rams owner Dan Reeves said the job was his.

But George Halas, the pioneer owner-coach of the Bears, immediately challenged the legality of the "multi-year" contract offered to the handsome Chicago defensive coach.

"The Rams' utter disregard and contempt for legal obligations present a serious challenge not only to the Bears but to the entire structure of the National Football League," said Halas, believed to have had Allen in mind as his eventual successor.

Best Interest

"Distasteful though any alteration is, the Bears must take whatever steps are needed to protect our best interests," Halas said.

Reeves, who dismissed Svare in December, conceded before the Halas blast that the man known as "Papa Bear" . . . "did not and still does not want me to sign George Allen." He said frankly Halas was very upset, although he insisted Allen had obtained Halas' permission before negotiating with the Rams.

Reeves repeated Monday night that Allen had contacted Halas and had received permission to discuss the Ram job with the club owner.

"The next day I talked with Mr. Halas by telephone and he said I should not hire Mr. Allen," Reeves said. But Reeves said Halas confirmed he told Allen he could discuss the job with the Rams.

Romney Backs Olympics Bid

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney has indicated he is ready and willing to support a new drive by Detroit to get the 1972 Olympic Games.

Detroit failed in a bid three years ago to win the 1988 games.

Romney sent Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh a telegram Monday declaring his willingness to obtain state support for another Olympic campaign providing the mayor wanted the assistance.

"If it is your desire to have such state support, I will be pleased to join with you in endeavoring to secure the needed commitment from legislative leaders for such a program," Romney said.

Detroit has indicated it wants another crack at winning the games for the motor city.

Romney led a state delegation to Baden-Baden, Germany, in 1963 in an attempt to convince the Olympic Committee the 1968 world games should be held in Detroit. But the committee chose Mexico City.

"I am ready and willing to do what I did then to secure such support for the Detroit bid," Romney told Cavanagh.

"In 1963 our proposal was the result of agreement and understanding between the city of Detroit, the governor and the legislative leaders. If we are to present a similar commitment at this time, we will need similar agreement and understanding for that purpose," he said.

Name Spartans Top Grid Team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Michigan State Spartans were named Monday as winners of the Howard Jones Memorial football trophy as the nation's top college team.

The trophy, awarded annually by the Howard Jones Foundation, will be presented to Michigan State Head Coach Duffy Daugherty at a dinner here Feb. 11.

Jones was head coach at USC from 1925 to 1940.

Previous winners were USC, 1962; Texas, 1963; and Notre Dame, 1964.

East Is Choice To Topple West In Cage Battle

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Oscar Robertson never has been a loser in a National Basketball Association All-Star game and the odds makers figure he will maintain his perfect record tonight.

The Eastern Division team, with Oscar as one of its top stars, is heavily favored to defeat the West for the 11th time in this 16th annual battle of the league's best.

The do-everything Cincinnati Royals' guard has played with the winning All-Star team ever since he broke into the NBA in 1961. In fact, the West has not won since Robertson and his Royal teammates were transferred to the Eastern Division four seasons ago in a league realignment.

The East should have a big edge on the backboards with Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell and Jerry Lucas, the NBA's big three in rebounding.

The West has only its starting center, Nate Thurmond of the San Francisco Warriors, to challenge that trio. He is No. 4 in league rebounding averages.

East coach Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics will decide by a flip of a coin this noon which of the NBA's two star centers will start Russell or the Celtics or Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers. Both were unanimous picks of the league's sportswriters and broadcasters.

Lucas and Thurmond were the only other unanimous choices.

Big Luke will be reunited with his Ohio State buddy, John Havlicek, as starting forwards for the East. Robertson and Sam Jones will open at guard.

For the West, coach Fred Schaus of the Los Angeles Lakers is obligated to start rookie Rick Barry of San Francisco and Barry Howell of the Baltimore Bullets at forward, and Jerry West of the Lakers and Guy Rodgers of the Warriors at guard.

The east reserves are Adrian Smith of Cincinnati, Hal Greer and Chet Walker of Philadelphia, and Willis Reed of the New York Knicks.

On the bench for the West will be Zelmo Beaty of the St. Louis Hawks, player-coach Dave De Busschere and Eddie Miles of the Detroit Pistons, Rudy LaRusso of Los Angeles and Don Ohl of Baltimore.

Golf's Details Trip Up Nicklaus; Short Tourney

By DAVE BURGIN

NEW YORK (NEA) — Those who know Jack Nicklaus say there's only one thing that can melt the ice cubes which house his nerve ends — details.

His inattention to detail took the relaxation out of his winter rest.

His concern nowadays is over whether or not he is going to be certified a bona fide Professional Golf Association professional in 1966.

If so, he'll be eligible for selection to pro golf's prestigious Ryder Cup team, a personal pinnacle Nicklaus badly wants to reach. If not, he'll have to wait another three years, possibly more.

Nicklaus, as a PGA apprentice, didn't play the required 25 tournaments this year.

"I scheduled 27 tournaments," he said. "I had to cancel two of them because I got wrapped up in other commitments and I found I needed some extra practice time to get ready for the National Open."

He didn't count on the cancellation of the Miami Beach Open, which left him one tournament short and chin-high in those dreaded details.

In PGA circles, the law's the thing and the rules are rigid.

Nicklaus applied for his PGA membership — and was approved for tournament play — late in 1965. This meant he could play in the big tournaments, but he had to serve a five-year apprenticeship before he was eligible for full PGA membership and Ryder Cup play.

When he realized his plight a few weeks ago, he even tried to organize his own tournament, just to make the required 25.

Think Positive Says Top Man In Keg Ranks

By SANDY PADWE

NEW YORK (NEA) — The car resembled something out of "The Grapes of Wrath" with taped windows, steam hissing beneath the hood and the back weighted down with all the family possessions.

Every 100 miles or so, Dick Weber had to pull into a gas station for some crankcase oil.

Without it, he never would have made it to St. Louis and if Dick Weber hadn't arrived there, he wouldn't be making $125,000 per year as he does now.

Dick Weber is the leading money winner on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

But in 1954, he was making $3,600 a year in Indianapolis.

"I was working in the post office," he said, "I was also giving instruction and I was trying to bowl at least four or five nights a week to improve my game."

He became a pro in 1954 and soon found himself on the road to St. Louis to become Don Carter's teammate.

Gussie Busch, the brewery baron, was sponsoring the team and when Weber finally arrived in St. Louis he didn't even have the proper clothes to wear for a squad picture.

Busch had to buy him a suit. "Those were the bologna and cheese days," Weber recalls.

Now it's sirloin and roast beef.

Weber is the PBA's top man because he is a bowler with immense concentration, a man who literally attacks the game scientifically.

"The PBA tour is more of a mental strain for me," he said, "than physical."

"I'm constantly studying the lanes. What I'm reaching for is a point where everything works instinctively."

"When I bowled those 300 games in Houston (he had three in one tournament last summer) I just felt perfect. I really felt I was going to bowl 300. That is the type of confidence I'm looking for every time I bowl."

"I'm not the only person on the tour like this. Carter is really something. When he bowls, he's in a world by himself, just like those guys in Gemini-7."

"And Ray Bluth, he takes notes. He has a chart on every lane he's played. He's like an IBM machine. He's also a yoga enthusiast, even stands on his head because he thinks it's good for him physically."

"I don't worry that much about physical conditioning. I do some exercises to keep my legs in shape, but that's about all. I don't do a lot of roadwork like some of the guys."

Weber is 36, weighs only 125 pounds and has a six-figure salary.

Positive thinking — and crankcase oil.

The perfect combination.

Freehan Okay After Surgery

DETROIT (UPI) — Bill Freehan, Detroit Tiger catcher, was reported in good condition following surgery Monday and doctors said he will probably be ready for the beginning of spring training next month.

Freehan, 24, underwent an appendectomy Monday after he complained of stomach pains Sunday. Doctors at Ford Hospital diagnosed the ailment as appendicitis.

The catcher was hampered last season by a back injury suffered in spring training and two hand bruises suffered during the season. He recently signed his 1966 contract and said he had recovered.

The operation was performed immediately to insure Freehan would be ready for the start of spring training Feb. 24.

Sports In Brief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rod Seiling, who started the National Hockey League season as a defenseman for New York, will return to the Rangers for their game against Detroit on Saturday. Center Jim Johnson was assigned to Minnesota of the Central Hockey League, the club which Seiling is leaving.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Defensive back Nate Ramsey of the Philadelphia Eagles is expected to be as fit as ever when a cast to correct torn ligaments in his left knee is removed in four weeks. Ramsey, injured in the final game of the season against Detroit, led the Eagles in interceptions with six in 1965 and five in 1964.

PARIS (UPI) — Jacques Marty of France opened a cut under Ferd Hernandez right eye in the fourth round Monday night and went on to win a 10-round decision over the favored Las Vegas boxer, Hernandez, who weighed the same as Marty at 163½ pounds, controlled the action in the first three and last two rounds and later said he thought he deserved the victory.

Kiss Delivered In Viet Nam By Playmate Girl

SAIGON (UPI) — Pretty Jo Collins, Playboy Magazine's "Playmate of the Year," flew to Viet Nam Monday to deliver a kiss and a lifetime subscription to the magazine to a paratrooper company now in combat against the Viet Cong.

An envious infantryman, shouldered aside by the paratroopers who promptly took charge of the bunny, whistled from a respectful distance as Miss Collins stepped off the plane and said:

"Boy, look at that. She's real . . . a real American girl, and what a girl."

Miss Collins, 20, of Eugene, Ore., walked from a plane into the warm tropical sun taking the airport dressed in a cream and red wool suit. On the lapel of the suit was a solid gold bunny pin with a ruby eye.

Pfc. Marvin Hudson of (Lake View Place), Eastport, (Long Island) N.Y., stepped up, put an airborne fatigue cap on her head and handed her a bouquet of 25 red roses.

The roses were mounted on top of what appeared to be a water buffalo's skull. The unit, Miss Collins is here to see is Bravo Company, 2nd Battalion, 503rd Infantry of the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The company is known here as the Buffalo company.

"I'm happy to be here," Miss Collins said, and promptly planted a kiss on Hudson's cheek. He blushed deeply, camouflaging the lipstick.

Tuesday morning, she will visit Lt. John S. Price of Oklahoma City, a wounded officer who was "Project Bunny" officer—the man in charge of trying to get the playmate to Viet Nam.

The project began last November when someone from Price's unit recalled that Playboy had offered to have a bunny make personal delivery to anyone purchasing a lifetime subscription to the magazine for $125.

The money was quickly collected and Price wrote the magazine. He made it fairly plain that he and the rest of the men were more interested in devery than the subscription.

"We would appreciate so very much a real, living, breathing American girl," Price wrote. "We have unanimously decided it should be the 'Playmate of the Year.'"

Seaton Reports $16.1 Million Assets Growth

Assets of Detroit & Northern Saving & Loan Association reached a record high of $165,977,193 in 1965, according to its annual report.

D. W. Seaton, president, said that the $16,177,000 growth in assets during 1965 represented a 10.8 per cent hike over a year ago.

"The past year has been one of intense competition for savings dollars and it looks as if 1966 will give us more of the same," said Seaton. "At the same time there are indications of a strengthening in the Upper Peninsula real estate market. This should mean increased activity in the mortgage lending field."

Seaton said that net savings growth at Detroit & Northern amounted to $9,216,000, as compared to $17,156,000 in the previous year.

The Association put $42,000.00 in mortgage loans on the books. Such loans now total $147,513,000.

Duty Near Luci

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Airman 3-C Patrick J. Nugent is on duty close to his fiancée Luci Johnson.

Nugent, who hopes to wed Luci this summer, is stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., for a four-month period of active duty with the District of Columbia Air National Guard.

Reds Put Big Guns In South

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops operating along the Cambodian border have uncovered evidence that a Communist North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battalion has infiltrated the South, a military spokesman disclosed today. It was the first such evidence of the war.

The spokesman said the Communist force, known as the H-13 anti-aircraft unit, was equipped with 18 heavy guns capable of shooting down fighter planes and jet bombers. The guns also are effective against troop-carrying helicopters.

The spokesman said the information on the anti-aircraft battalion came from three North Vietnamese regulars captured during "Operation Matador" in the Central Highlands west of Pleiku near the Cambodian border.

A multi-battalion force from the U.S. Army's 1st Air Cavalry Division is involved in the sweep.

Use Machine Guns
The spokesman quoted the prisoners as saying their battalion was equipped with the Chinese Communist version of the U.S. 50 caliber machine gun.

As the disclosure was being made, the U.S. moratorium on bombing raids against the Communist North went into its 18th day.

The U.S. Cavalrymen have been sweeping the area west of Pleiku for the past six days with little significant contact with the enemy. Several times American soldiers have spotted North Vietnamese troops across the Sa San River which forms the border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

At times the Americans have dared the Communists to open fire across the river, but no fighting has resulted.

High Guerrilla Toll
In another major action involving U.S. and Australian troops, paratroopers and infantrymen involved in "Operation Crimp" northwest of Saigon killed 62 Viet Cong guerrillas with the help of artillery fire and air support Monday.

It was the highest number killed since the 173rd Airborne Brigade, elements of the 1st Infantry Division and the Royal Australian Battalion moved into the area.

The operation to date has resulted in a total of 44 Communists killed, 38 captured and 495 suspects detained for questioning.

A military spokesman said 29 of the Viet Cong were killed when the lead element of the 173rd Airborne slammed into a Viet Cong company 25 miles northeast of the capital shortly before darkness. After a brief skirmish, the guerrillas faded back into the scrub bush and jungle.

Earlier in the day, another paratrooper element reported 16 Communists killed during continuous contact with snipers and small groups of guerrillas.

In Service

S/Sgt. Ulyde McGinnis of the U. S. Air Force has returned to the States after a tour of duty of the Pacific including assignment to Viet Nam from April, 1965, to Jan. 3 this year. Prior to that he was stationed in the Philippines. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McGinnis of 910 1st Ave. N. and has been in the Air Force for about 10 years. S Sgt. McGinnis is expected home on a visit soon.

Topic Ignored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul H. Todd, D-Mich., has deplored public reluctance to discuss family planning. Todd said Monday that family planning and birth control were largely ignored topics in forecasts of what Congress will do in its new session.

Britain's Princess Margaret receives $42,000 annually from Parliament.

Illness Fatal To Dr. Hilberry

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Clarence B. Hilberry, an instructor of Shakespeare who worked his way to the presidency of Wayne State University, collapsed and died here Monday night.

Hilberry, 62, retired last June 30 as president of Wayne State, one of the largest educational institutions in the nation. He then took a position as an adviser on education to the president of the Ford Foundation, Dr. Henry T. Held.

Police found Hilberry on a floor in a New York building and he was pronounced dead from natural causes on arrival at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Hilberry, president of Wayne for 13 years, began as an English instructor at what was then Detroit City College in 1929. His specialty during his teaching days was the study of Shakespeare.

He later became Wayne State's first English department chairman and became president of the institution in 1953 after serving as academic vice president.

He was at the school while it was growing from a college to a university and finally to one of the largest state-supported universities in the nation.

Hilberry, who also was chairman of the Detroit Commission on Community Relations before leaving for New York, announced his retirement in 1963. He was replaced last June by Dr. William Rea Keast.

At the time of his retirement, a $250,000 distinguished chair in urban affairs at the university in honor of Hilberry was established by Detroit Edison Co. Chairman Walker Cislter.

Hilberry, who received a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, is survived by his widow, Ruth, and two sons.

Girl, 12, Shot; Hunter To Have Hearing Jan. 20

WAKEFIELD (UPI) — A Jan. 20 hearing has been set for hunter Alan J. Whitburn of West Allis, Wis., charged in the fatal shooting of a girl he allegedly mistook for a deer.

Whitburn is accused of manslaughter and careless use of a firearm in the death of Janice Edmark, 12, shot while sledding with a companion Nov. 13.

Fred Williams, Wakefield justice of the peace, said the hearing was delayed pending medical reports from Duluth, Minn.
